

29 MAY, 2024

Humble leadership a boost to workplaces

Hobart Mercury, Hobart

University of
South Australia

Page 1 of 1

Humble leadership a boost to workplaces

Being a humble leader in your workplace can effectively elevate the workplace and improve employee morale. A recent study from the University of South Australia found that humble leadership led to several significant benefits, such as boosting employees sense of respect and prominence.

Humble leadership is a type of behaviour that is defined as leaders who "view themselves accurately, appreciate the strengths and contributions of others and are open to feedback, even if it's critical".